

MORNING APPEAL.

Sunday.....July 18 1886.

STEWART'S POLICY.

Senator Stewart's address to the people of this city is printed on the local page of this issue. Not a full but a sufficient summary report is given to enable those who did not hear to judge of his position upon the leading issues of the present time. It is not specially a political speech, it outlines a policy for the building up of this State which gives us pleasure to observe is in exact accord with the policy preached by the APPEAL for the past two years. The matter of electing a United States Senator in the present crisis in the State's history is something beyond a mere political proposition. We want beyond all else a man in Washington who can wield an influence for the State's good and who has practical ideas relative to the best plan for the prosperity of Nevada.

The plan laid down by Mr. Stewart of adding portions of Idaho and Wyoming Territories will place the State beyond the purchasing power in elections and we will no longer be stigmatized as the Pocket Borough. It would add to our mineral and agricultural wealth, and give us much additional resources.

His plan of inducing the United States Government to co-operate with the State Government in utilizing the waste waters of the rivers and lakes of this State is the only real road to prosperity and wealth, and if prosperity is ever reached in Nevada as it certainly will be, it will be reached by this road.

The APPEAL does not say that the theories advanced by Mr. Stewart are the best. If any other man can suggest anything better let him come forward and by so doing he will then have a superior claim to Stewart upon the suffrages of the people. The progress and welfare of Nevada ought to be the first consideration of every citizen.

The man who can bring wealth out of the water and the soil of Nevada, and who can bring the aid of the general government to put idle men at work in this State by expending money on schemes for the public good, is pre-eminently the man for Nevada, be he Democrat or Republican. The next five years decides whether this State is to take a place in the first rank or go to the rear forever.

—Maxwell is said to retain some hope, as he still has two Supreme Courts to appeal to. Perhaps a careful search in the records would disclose the fact that the law under which the jury that convicted him was drawn was engrossed by a person whose baptismal certificate was signed by a clergyman whose diploma came from a theological seminary whose founder's will was drawn by a lawyer not in good professional standing.—Post.

—The Washington papers assert that Mrs. Cleveland keeps a poodle dog, which is her constant companion. It would seem that Grover would be enough company for his wife without any poodle dog. When Grant was in the White House the press complained of the frequency of the bull pup in the halls of the Administration.

Between the bull pup and the poodle the APPEAL is for the bull pup.

—The street car lines in San Francisco are experiencing a lock-out. The men have struck because of long hours, hard work and low pay. The Knights of Labor are backing the car men in their fight but anything like coercion is avoided. Any man who wants to drive a car at the present wages can do so if he wishes.

—Deisreal aptly says that the critics were those who had failed in literature and art. The men who are the oftenest criticising other peoples' political methods are those who have failed in politics. Having tried to be bosses and failed they denounced bossism.

—A man walked into the Examiner office a few days ago and scattered his brains over the floor of the counting room, thereby leaving the editorial room to shift for itself.
